HOLMES STUDENTS MORE LIKELY TO GRADUATE, ACCORDING TO CNNMoney

According to a recent study released by CNNMoney, students who attend Holmes Community College are more likely to graduate or transfer to a four-year school than students who attend other community colleges nationwide.

Holmes ranks 76 out of 786 institutions, placing the school in the top 10 percent of America's community colleges. Holmes was the second highest rated Mississippi community college.

Colleges Measures, a joint venture of the American Institute of Research and Matrix Knowledge Group, conducted the study in an attempt to help students and parents avoid "dropout factories," which are labeled as schools that graduate fewer than 25 percent of students. To make sure that schools did not appear on the list of Top Schools because of a statistical blip, small schools with fewer than 200 students were not considered as a part of the study.

The rankings are based on the percentage of students who graduated or transferred to a four-year university within three years of enrolling. Last year alone, graduation numbers at Holmes increased a dramatic 35.41 percent over the previous year, leading Mississippi's community college system in percentage gain.

President Glenn Boyce attributes the school's success to several factors, the first of which is a high-performing student population matched with an incredibly dedicated and talented faculty.

"Many of our students come to us lacking basic college readiness," Boyce explained. "I firmly believe that this type of national recognition is evidence that we make up more ground than most, and we do so without sacrificing quality. In many ways, it is our job to bring out the best in our students. This type of success penetrates to the very heart of our mission."

"Education is the most strategic advantage we have in Mississippi," Boyce said. "If we want to move forward as a state to change the lives of Mississippians, it is important that we stand firm in our commitment to meet the needs of Mississippi students and continue to build an educated workforce."

HOLMES ROLLS OUT MOBILE FIRST RESPONSE TRAINING

Trauma remains the leading cause of death for Mississippians age 1 to 44, but Holmes Community College hopes to change that.

A recent grant through the Holmes Community College Development Foundation and a partnership with the Central Mississippi Trauma District is allowing the college to expand the Emergency Medical Technology program to include ongoing trauma education for pre-hospital providers, who are already employed throughout the Central Mississippi Trauma District.

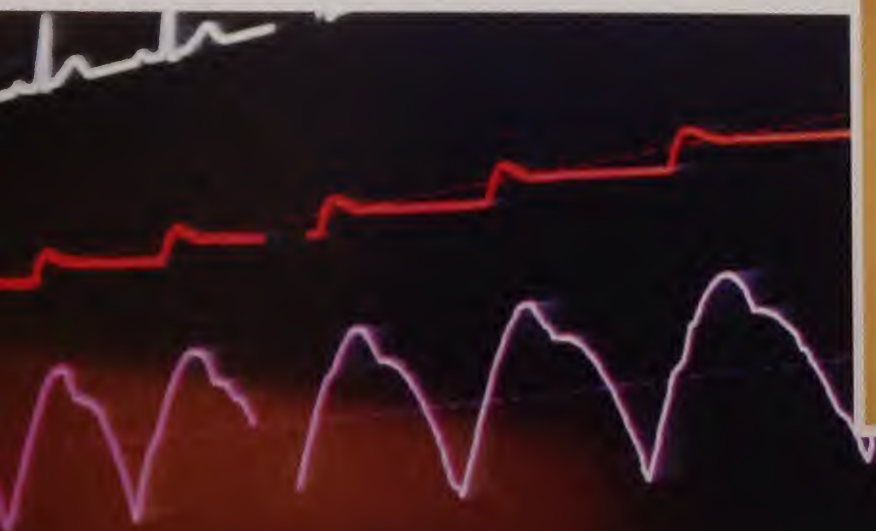

To do this, the college purchased a large RV that will be converted into a mobile training unit. The state-of-the-art mobile classroom will include three distinct areas.

An ambulance simulator will provide students with an opportunity to work in what appears to be a working emergency vehicle.

The mobile training unit will also have an emergency room simulator, giving students an opportunity to work in an emergency room environment. Both areas will be overseen by a control room, where instructors will monitor student interactions.

The vehicle will also be equipped with a human patient simulator known as iStan. This high-fidelity mannequin offers internal robotics that mimic cardiovascular, respiratory, neurological and pharmacological human modeling.

With wireless operation, iStan can be placed in any field location, including an automobile, and display all vital signs and signals of a critically ill or injured patient. An instructor can manage the simulation from a remote laptop. iStan is considered the gold standard of patient modeling in healthcare.

Body Temp

When iStan bleeds, his blood pressure, heart rate and other clinical signs change automatically, and he responds to treatment with minimal input from an instructor.

With a realistic airway, articulated joints and blood on board, iStan has full mobile simulation capabilities.

In addition to multiple pulse points and fully independent right and left lungs that respond automatically to treatment, iStan can simulate flail chest, cyanosis on fingers and toes and difficult airway challenges.

Once complete, this mobile classroom will travel throughout the Central Mississippi Region, which is made up of 14 counties.

HOLMES NAMED TO BLACKBOARD COLLABORATE HALL OF FAME

Bh

"Congratulations to Holmes for being named to the Blackboard Collaborate Hall of Fame for Excellence in Collaboration," said Mauriece Heiblum, president of Blackboard Collaborate. "As schools and universities continue to personalize education, they are actively connecting students and faculty in new ways. The Blackboard Collaborate Hall of Fame recognizes those schools, colleges and universities that are leading the charge by pursuing innovative directions."

Holmes Community College was inducted into the Blackboard Collaborate Hall of Fame for Excellence in Collaboration's Class of 2012, which recognizes educators who have shown exemplary innovation and creativity in their use of the Blackboard Collaborate platform.

Blackboard Collaborate, the leading education-focused Web, video and audio conferencing platform, helps improve student achievement through personalized instruction. Holmes was named to the Hall of Fame in recognition of its unique use of Blackboard within teaching and learning programs.

"Recently, the school's Associate Degree Nursing department used Collaborate's web conferencing tool to host a district-wide departmental meeting. This innovative use of technology saved the school $1,600 and 50 man hours for one meeting.

The school was honored alongside other Hall of Fame inductees at the Blackboard Collaborate Hall of Fame induction ceremony at the 2012 Connections Summit, held in New Orleans.

Blackboard Collaborate's Web, video and audio conferencing technologies are used by thousands of higher education, K-12, professional, corporate and government organizations worldwide.

"Holmes has placed significant importance on the implementation of this technology...not only for instructional uses, but also for college-wide, day-to-day usage."

This year, more than ever, Holmes students, faculty and staff members, have been actively engaged in making a difference in the Holmes Community College District.

Campus organizations and school-wide initiatives have impacted lives for organizations including Community Stewpot, Mississippi Blood Services Wounded Warriors, Adam's Project and American Cancer Society, to name a few.

Making a Difference

All three campuses supported the Wounded Warrior Project through various fundraisers and activities during the 2012/2013 year.

Money raised as a part of this initiative went to support severely injured service members.

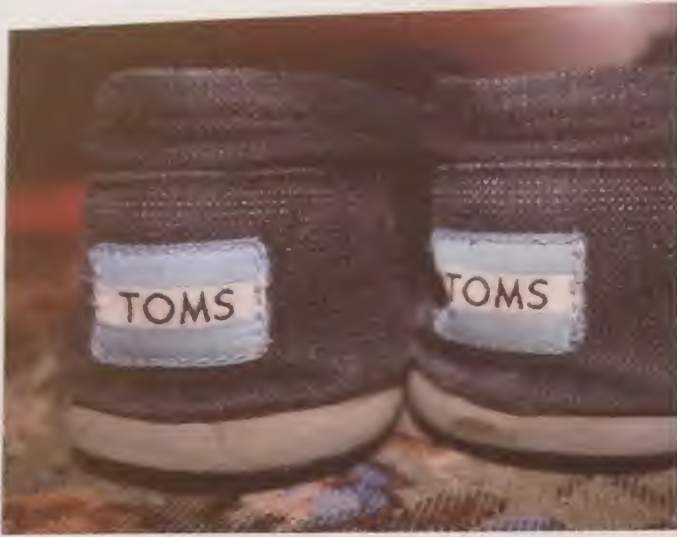

Several organizations including SkillsUSA and the Holmes Association of Legal Students (HALS) served meals to homeless individuals through Stewpot Community Services.

Each year, Goodman students host and participate in Relay for Life, benefiting the American Cancer Society.

FASHION TRENDS

TOMS:

These trendy, Bohemian-style shoes are best described as style with a purpose. With every pair your purchase, TOMS will give a pair of new shoes to a child in need. One for One.

Scarves:

Colors, prints, textures and sizes aside; all scarves were a hit in 2013. Whether it was functional or merely fashionable, scarves definitely did the trick this year.

Embellished Tops:

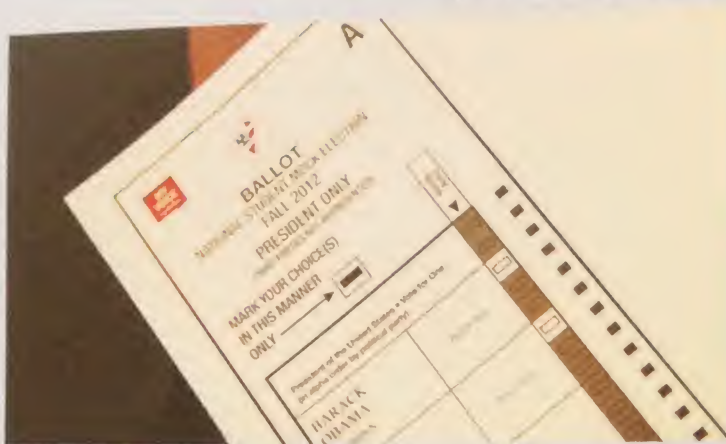

This year, sequin embellishments were all the rage. A little sparkle made jeans, tops, shoes and boots better versions of themselves.

Leather Boots:

Season after season, we are seeing fashionable knee-high leather boots! Worn with everything from jeans to jeggings to dresses, these boots were a staple in almost everyone's closet this year.

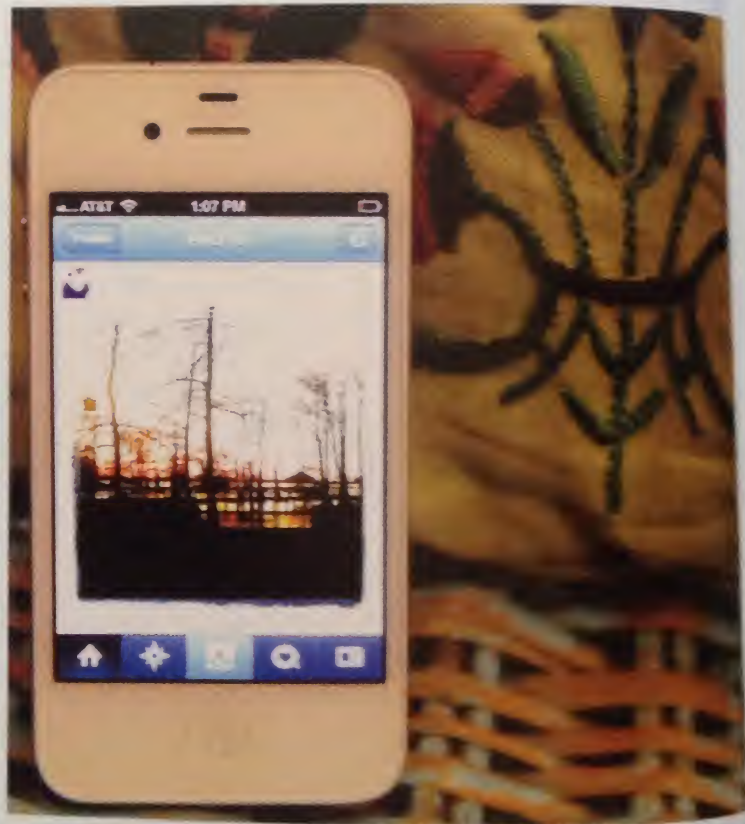

LIFESTYLE TRENDS

voting: More than 120 million people turned out to vote in the 2012 Presidential Election between Democratic incumbent Barack Obama and Republican Mitt Romney. If 120 million people are doing it, we think that's pretty cool.

Instagram:

This year, Instagram took over the world of social media with its too-cool-for-school photo-editing tools. The duck face never looked so good.

beats:

Beats by Dre headphones are designed for engineers, musicians and those who take sound seriously, but these headphones don't come easy (or cheap). Despite the hefty price tag, we these are one of the year's most popular tech items.

E-Learning:

Thousands of Holmes Community College students never step foot on one of our three campuses. That means they can log in and learn from the comfort of their living room, backyard or even the beach. If that's not cool, we don't know what is.

Holmes Gets Social

Facebook: Facebook is the social and informational HUB for all things Holmes. Keep up with registration dates or see photos from last night's game, all from the convenience of your smartphone or personal computer.

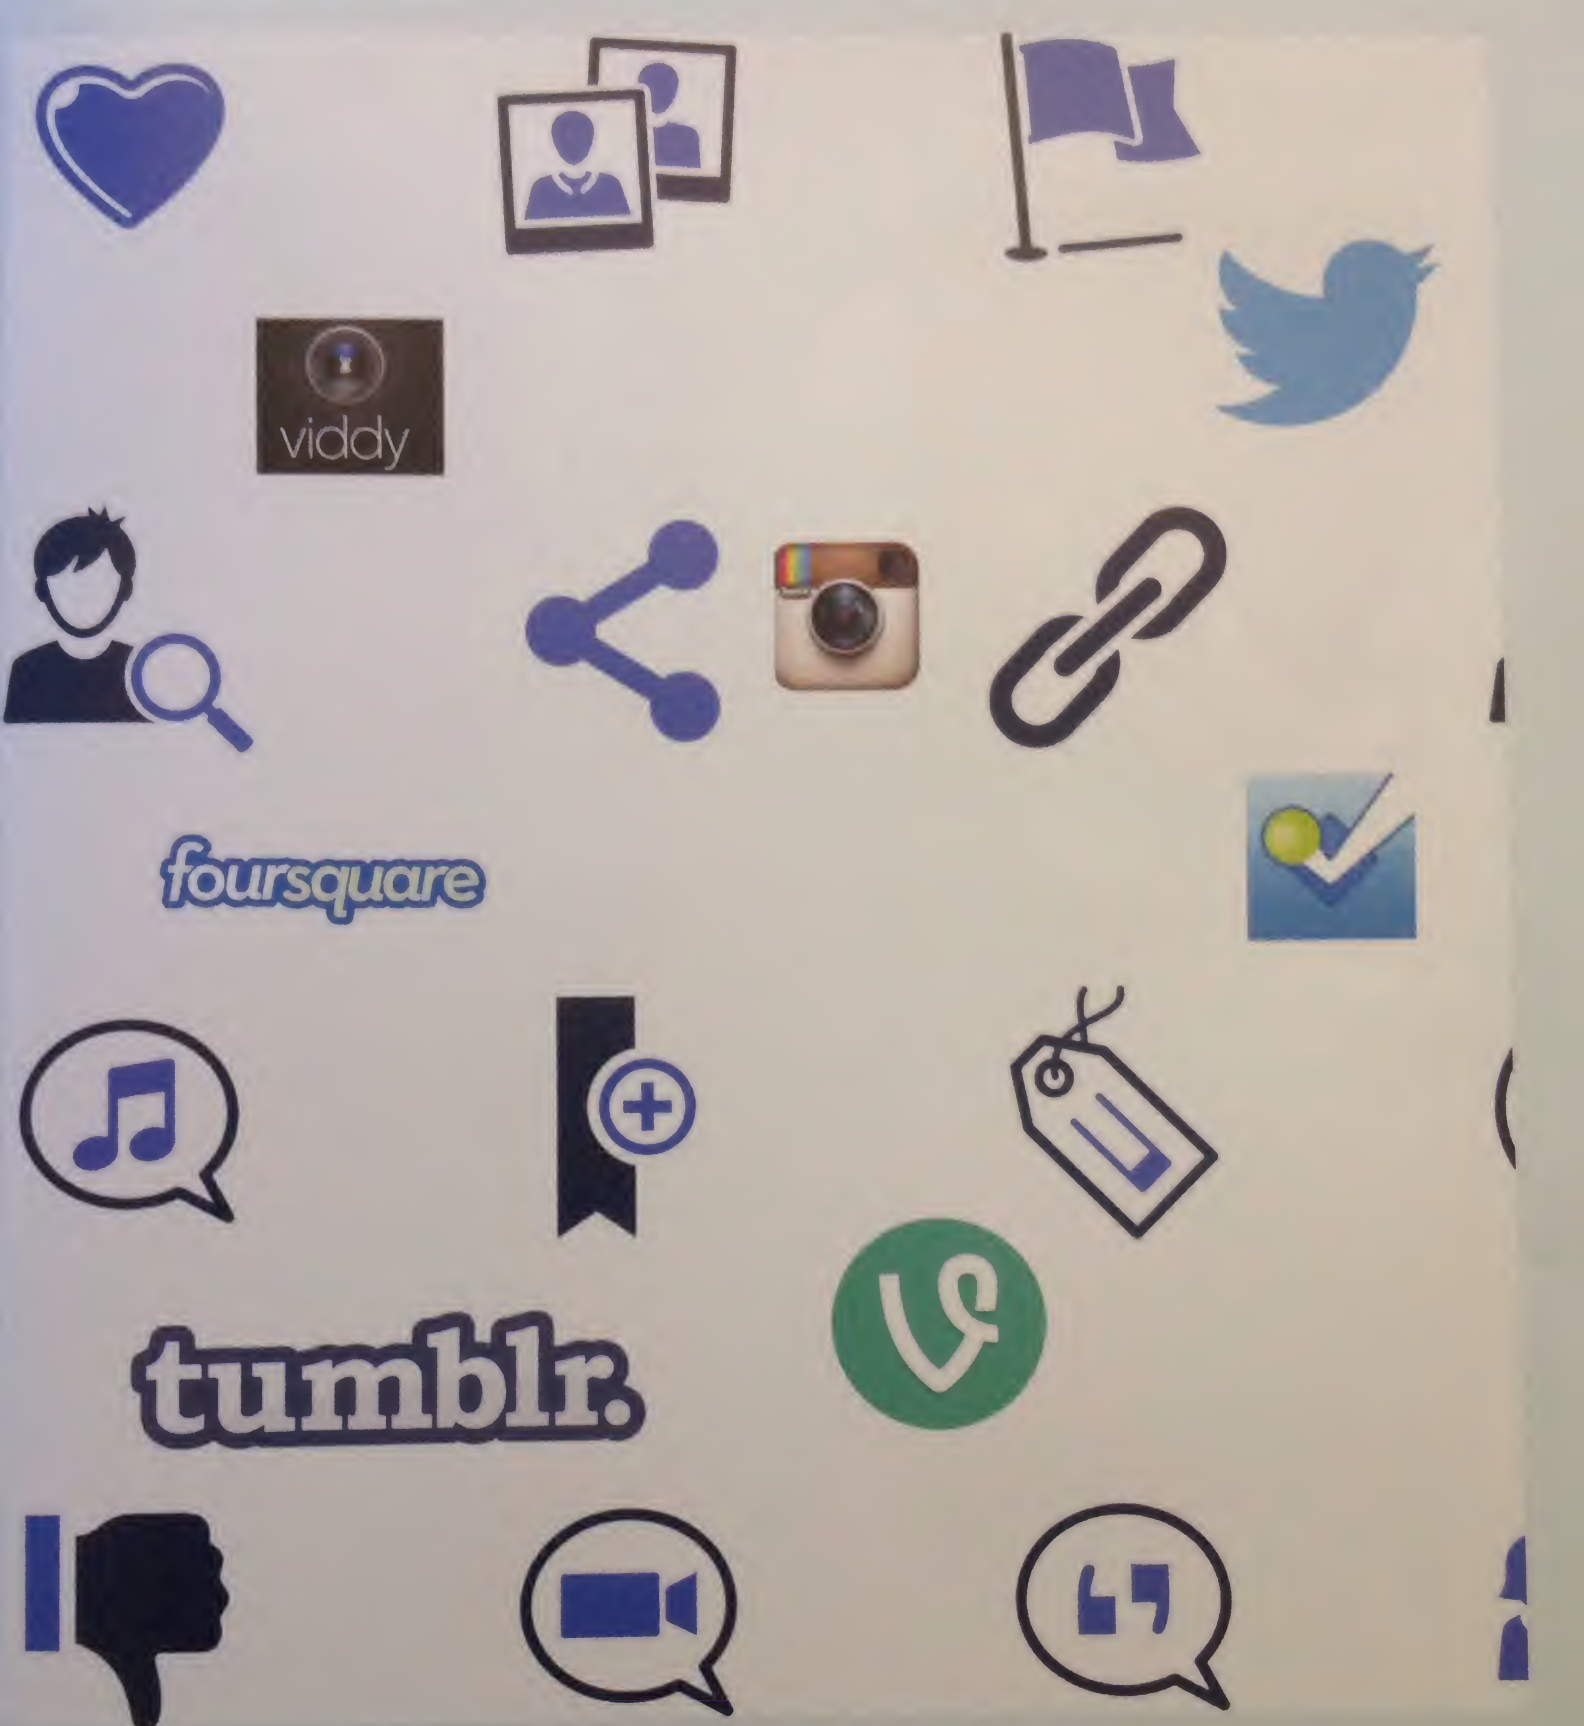

YouTube:

YouTube videos at Holmes offer a glimpse into the life of a student at Holmes CC. Don't believe us? Check out this year's Harlem Shake videos.

Pinterest:

Pinterest is our favorite way to share ideas (or waste time).

Social Explosion:

Tumblr., FourSquare, Twitter , Vimeo, Vine and Instagram are just a few of the ways we stay connected the Holmes Community.

Rumblin in Ridgeland

Show Stoppers:

More than 100 cars, trucks and motorcycles were registered for this year's event. Each year, the event has grown in participation and attendance. Awards are given out in a variety of categories.

A New Tradition :

This year marked the 3rd anniversary of Rumblin' in Ridgeland, a partnership between Holmes Community College and several community organizations.

Mississippi Classic Cruisers:

This Mississippi Classic Cruisers are an integral part of the success of this event. Each year, they help organize the show.

A Charity Event:

A dashed line, possibly representing a boundary or path, runs diagonally from the bottom left towards the top left. In the lower center, there is a detailed compass rose with eight points, colored in a dark red or maroon hue. The cardinal directions are labeled with letters: 'N' for North, 'E' for East, 'S' for South, and 'W' for West. Fragments of text from the map are visible: 'nior' on the left side and 'bmen' at the bottom left. The main title 'Homecoming' is written in a large, elegant, dark red serif font, underlined. Each year, two mascots are chosen to represent Holmes as a part of the HCC Cheerleading Squad.

These mascots are considered to be the center of school spirit at Holmes.

Bully

Bully often participates at community events, throughout the Holmes District.

Once selected, the Bulldog mascots attend national mascot training camps.

Although the HCC Bulldog mascots are based on the Goodman Campus, they can often be found in Ridgeland and in Grenada, sharing their school spirit across the Holmes District.

In addition to participating in school sporting events, Bully can be found at other school events including Fall Fest and Spring Fling, to name a few.

Ridgeland

The Lamplighters Program began in 1990 by the Academic Deans Association to honor excellence in teaching. This year's honorees were Gooman Instructor Gale Sheppard, Ridgeland Instructor Greg Wilson and Grenada Instructor Shae Wang.

This year's conference was held in Bay St. Louis. The conference provides an opportunity for recognizing faculty who go beyond and above what is required.

The major objectives of the project are to recognize and reward effective teaching in the Mississippi community colleges and to give effective instructors an opportunity to share with one another those teaching techniques that promote learning.

Headwae Award 2012/2013

Outstanding students and faculty members from 34 Mississippi public and private universities and colleges received special recognition from the Mississippi Legislature, during the 26th Annual Higher Education Appreciation Day—Working for Academic Excellence (HEADWAE) program.

This year's honorees from Holmes were Goodman Sophomore Dudley Moore and Ridgeland Instructor Donna Ahlrich.

HEADWAE was established in 1988 by legislative resolution to honor individual academic achievement and the overall contribution of the state's public and private institutions of higher learning.

John Switzer

John Switzer has been a favorite of Holmes Community College students since joining the school's History faculty in 1988. He is known for bringing the subject of History to life for students, through lectures that have been described by students as "entertaining and engaging."

Before coming to Holmes, John lived an interesting life, which his students would tell you translates into the classroom. From 1970 to 1976, he worked on Air Force bases from Guam to Germany. At Anderson Air Force Base, John worked as a lifeguard and scuba diving instructor.

John went on to work at Lowes and at Miller-Willis Aviation, before becoming a Graduate Assistant and adjunct professor in the History Department at the University of Southern Mississippi.

John's educational achievements are extensive. He attended the University of Guam at Agana, where he studied English Literature. He also attended the University of Maryland at Birburg Air Force Base, where he studied European History and Art.

John received his bachelor's and master's degrees in History from the University of Southern Mississippi and has completed additional studies there.

John is a father and grandfather.

Wayne Watkins

Wayne Watkins is not only an administrator at Holmes Community College, he is a graduate. After graduating from Holmes with an AAS in Building and Construction Technology, he went on to the University of Southern Mississippi, where he earned bachelor's master's and education specialist's degrees.

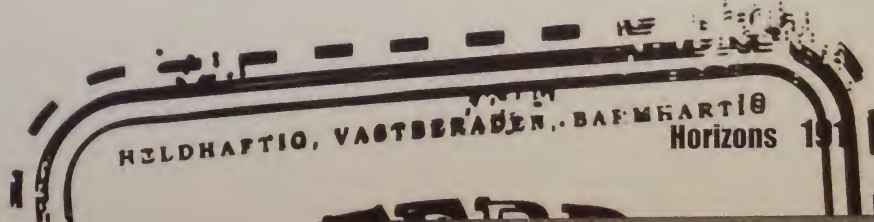

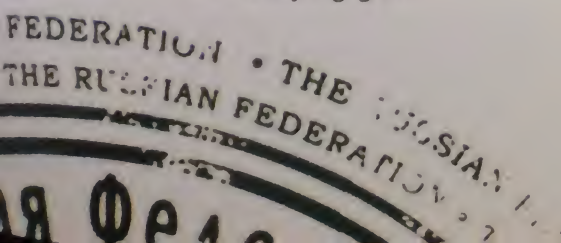

Before being named Director of Career Technical Education for the Ridgeland Campus in 2002, Wayne taught for more than 20 years, beginning at Joe Barnes Vo-Tech Center in 1977, as a Building Trades instructor.

He joined the faculty of Holmes Community College in 1985, as a Construction Technology instructor. In 1988, Wayne began teaching Drafting and Design and was named Department Chair. In 1995, he received the Lamplighter College Instructor Award for his outstanding work in the classroom.

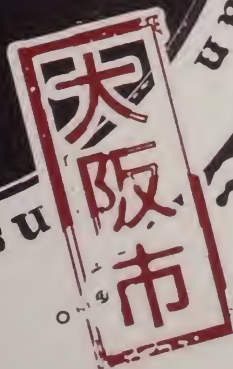

Wayne designed and implemented the school's Computer Network Support Technology Program and worked as an instructor within that program.

In addition to his work at Holmes, Wayne has worked extensively as a consultant for organizations including the Mississippi Department of Education, the University of Southern Mississippi and Jasper County Schools.

He and wife Jackie have two children, one granddaughter and a grandson on the way. Wayne enjoys building things, cooking, working in the yard, reading and playing golf.
